While this change isn't a big deal, it still ends some old trends. For example, decorating your locker, a trend to help express yourself and organize, is now a thing of the past. There's also a ...

If the lockers are not full, then I would imagine it sits there until you pick it up, or until the next Amazon "refill" employee decides that your "old" item is not being picked up and therefore they send it back so ...

Yes, each year I take a 3 days lockers, they don't open them. When the festival starts I let my sweat for the evening, and before leaving I let my bag with a full camelback in the locker. This ...

I imagine that's a question for Amazon's chat. But my guess is you have a 50/50 chance if it being there. It probably depends on how full the rest of the lockers are.

Basically wondering if I should just be lazy and go once after all items are dropped, or go pick up my items already in the locker in fear that all lockers may be full and my items will get returned.

After 5 days, you will receive a final email that the code has expired and the package has been removed from the locker and must be picked up at the Post Office retail window.

For most students, cleaning out their desk or locker is a much-anticipated event signaling the end of the school year and the start of the summer. In their haste to leave school, students, teachers, and staff ...

After school began, full-time lockers suddenly disappeared. Many students wondered the reason for this. I decided to write a piece about why lockers should come back, and for part of this ...

At the end of my shift, I reached out to my manager and supervisor, which she said she didn't know what I was talking about, that she had cleared all lockers that were not assigned.
